

National Youth Week Ambassadors 2017

Jessie Spargo, 23 from the Darwin, Palmerston and Darwin Rural Region

Jessie is a 23 year old, Darwin born, young woman who currently works as Laboratory Research Assistant. Jessie is also studying a Masters of Disaster and Emergency Management at Charles Darwin University.

Jessie was drawn to National Youth Week because she believes it is a platform from which ideas can be shared and developed together.

Jessie believes that young people should get involved in youth week because it is about having fun outside school and work and showing off their skills and ideas.

Jessie is most looking forward to getting to know everyone throughout youth week, and believes that although the Territory is a relatively small community, there is no shortage of talented young people.
